President's Corner

We need to get things ready for the fair. Anyone that has display cases for framed honey from last year and are not using them, please return them for someone else to use. We would like to have a list of things you are planning to sell at the fair ahead of time. This will help with planning for space of all products. There are Clam Shells (25 cents each) & 4" Clear Square cases ($1.50 each) for Comb Honey Judging at the fair. Also 1# glass jars for your honey. This saves you from buying a quantity you might not want and the trip to buy them. It also will make them alike. Call me for these items (George). If you are not able to be at this month's meeting to sign up for working the fair, Ralph has the schedule and you will need to contact him. Remember you get 1/2 of your Banquet meal paid for by working a shift.

This Month/Next Month in Beekeeping:

August

Since the nectar flow will end this month, the bees will become much more flighty, searching for nectar which is now not as plentiful to find. The bees are making a final effort to store up for winter, searching for final nectar sources. Golden rod and Aster plants can provide an average nectar flow in the fall.

If you have multiple hives, you must be careful not to let a strong hive rob a weak hive. If nectar is still coming in, continue to place supers on the hive. Be careful not to open up the hive for extended periods as other hives may try and rob the hive while it is opened. I usually will place a 5 gallon bucket in my bee yards and fill it with 2:1 sugar water, 2 parts sugar and 1 part water. Then, I will fill it with clean sticks so the bees will not drown. After a few hours the bucket will be covered with thousands of bees. Don't put this close to your house. This is a great way to feed your bees and to prevent them from robbing other weaker hives.

September

The bees will still be working fall flowers but in most states, the amount of honey produced in September will be minimum. The days are still warm enough to allow the bees time to gather more last minute nectar prior to the first major hard freeze or frost which will kill the flowers. September is to some the start of the beekeeper's year! What you do in September will determine how well your bees do next year, and how well they overwinter. Here are some suggestions to over winter:

- Consider re-queening: You don't have to, if your queen has done well. But it is advisable to re-queen in September. If you can afford to re-queen your hive each year, it would be best to do so in September. A new queen means a much younger queen who has stronger pheromones and who will be more apt to lay eggs more efficiently in the Spring.
- Take off all your supers: Like most things there is some give and take here. Evaluate the capped honey in the brood boxes before removing the supers. You want to reduce the interior space the bees need to heat in the winter but you also need to have enough food for all the bees all winter long.
- Weigh your hives: When in doubt bring out a scale to figure out if there is enough honey in the hives. Keep in mind though it's not all about weight. It's also about placement. A hive can still starve out in the late winter with full frames on honey in the hive that they could not get to in the cold.

Lastly stay out of your hive as soon as you finish your hive work. The bees will seal the hive with propolis. This will cut down on the cold draft in winter. It should be ok to remove the top and inner cover to replenish food stores but leave the boxes alone.

http://justjennrecipes.com/creamed-honey-scones/

Ingredients:

2 cups all-purpose flour 1 teaspoon baking powder 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon pinch of salt 1/2 cup creamed honey 1/2 cup (1 stick) butter, softened 1 egg 1/2 cup heavy cream 1 teaspoon vanilla

Instructions:

Preheat the oven to 375 degrees. Prep a baking sheet with a silpat.

In a bowl whisk together flour, baking powder, cinnamon and salt.

Add the creamed honey, butter, egg, heavy cream and vanilla until just combined.

Scrape the dough onto the silpat lined sheet and spread it flat, about 1 inch thick. This mixture is pretty sticky!

Bake for 15 minutes, then cut into pieces and let cool on a wire rack.
